CONFIDENTIAL

Fuselage conspicuously slim, very long and tapering forward of wing root, bulge under wing root, wings slim and trapezoidal with pronounced dihedral and sweepback, small span, silver sheen, no markings, somewhat smaller than the Me-109, roaring noise of engine, high speed.

Report again confirms that swept back aircraft are manufactured in GORKI. The observed bulge at the wing root is noteworthy. According to previous reports, this bulge was believed to be a type of radiator (oil radiator).
